Magnificent Retreat Overlooking the Canyon 506 The Alameda, Berkeley

This is truly one of a kind home! In addition to all of the amenities of a new home, it offers as peaceful and secluded a setting as can be found in the middle of the city. This home is perfect for entertaining with its open floor plan, wonderful center courtyard, and huge decks overlooking the canyon. The main level has access on three sides to the courtyard and consists of sunken living room with wood burning fireplace, dining area and kitchen with marble counters. The master bedroom contains a full bath with sunken tub, all opening onto the deck over the canyon. There are also two more bedrooms, plus a full bath in the hallway which contains the laundry area with new washer and dryer, along with a built-in ironing board.

The all new lower level has a full wet bar, family room with gas fireplace, and a media room. There is a full bath and bedroom on this level as well. There is a built-in sound system with home run wiring, video security system and intercom.

This home was originally designed for a University of California professor by Donald Harms, noted Berkeley architect. It has been thoughtfully remodeled with attention to every detail, maintaining the original character while updating the home to today's standards.
